

The Society for Melanoma Research (SMR) is a diverse organization of scientific and medical investigators devoted to alleviating the suffering of people with melanoma.

The SMR was founded to unify the field by increasing communication among researchers and building bridges of collaboration between basic, translational and clinical investigators

Ways of Giving: As an independent nonprofit society, SMR relies not only upon membership dues but also the generosity of individual, corporate and foundation donors to support its infrastructure, further research and enable SMR to hold a yearly international congress on melanoma research.
